

M A D R U K

MATT ZO
+
I SEE MONSTAS SINFUL

by john threat

SINFUL THE MEMORY THIEVES

by john threat

Hi Matt Zo and I See Monstas!

I dig this song! I also am totally into your mood board for this video, a lot of the images are in my collection. I recommend the TV show Black Mirror to everyone so I'm stoked it's a reference. I've cooked up two incredible near future dark scifi stories for you. This one is The Memory Thieves

Our story , three cyber punks break into a rich man's home and steal his memories and sell them on the street, they are make a ton of cash till something goes terribly wrong.

We open to a handsome guy is relaxing in his luxury pool.

Suddenly a drone floats down and shoots him with a dart! He passes out.

Two guys and a girl jump over the wall of his compound dressed up in crazy cyberpunk gear. They run up to him and place a crazy high tech helmet on his head. He starts convulsing as the Memory Helmet lights up. The screen indicates it is draining his memory! They jerk it off when it hits 100%. He passes out.

The three memory thieves jump into a van. They drive down to a poor part of town and kick open the doors. A line of people who look like they have been beat down by life line up at the back of the van to take turns with the memory helmet.

When people put the helmet on they relive the rich guys memories, except they see their face on his body. For Example: Walking into a bedroom with a hot model girl, skipping the line at a club whhen the bouncer waves them in. Floating in the pool with a servant pouring them champagne.

When the people leave the Memory Thieves are flush with cash. But they aren't finished yet.

The girl puts on the memory helmet and attempts to get his fiscal information from his wallet but the helmet malfunctions! The helmet starts smoking and she convulses. The memory has been corrupted! Her friends try to pull the helmet off!

She finds herself in black limbo, weird geometric shapes and a giant head of the guy whose memory they stole haunts her frightening her.

She snaps out of the mental embolism and wakes up and takes off the helmet and feels her face.

She manages to crack a melancholy smile , lucky to be alive, but kinda sad she doesnt have the memories anymore. The guys are glad she is alive and close the van doors.

FIN

NOTES

We can adjust these story elements to be darker as needed. Perhaps the memories they have stolen are not as happy-go-lucky as they imagined they would be. He could be beating his wife, cheating on her, sniffing cocaine with the dog.

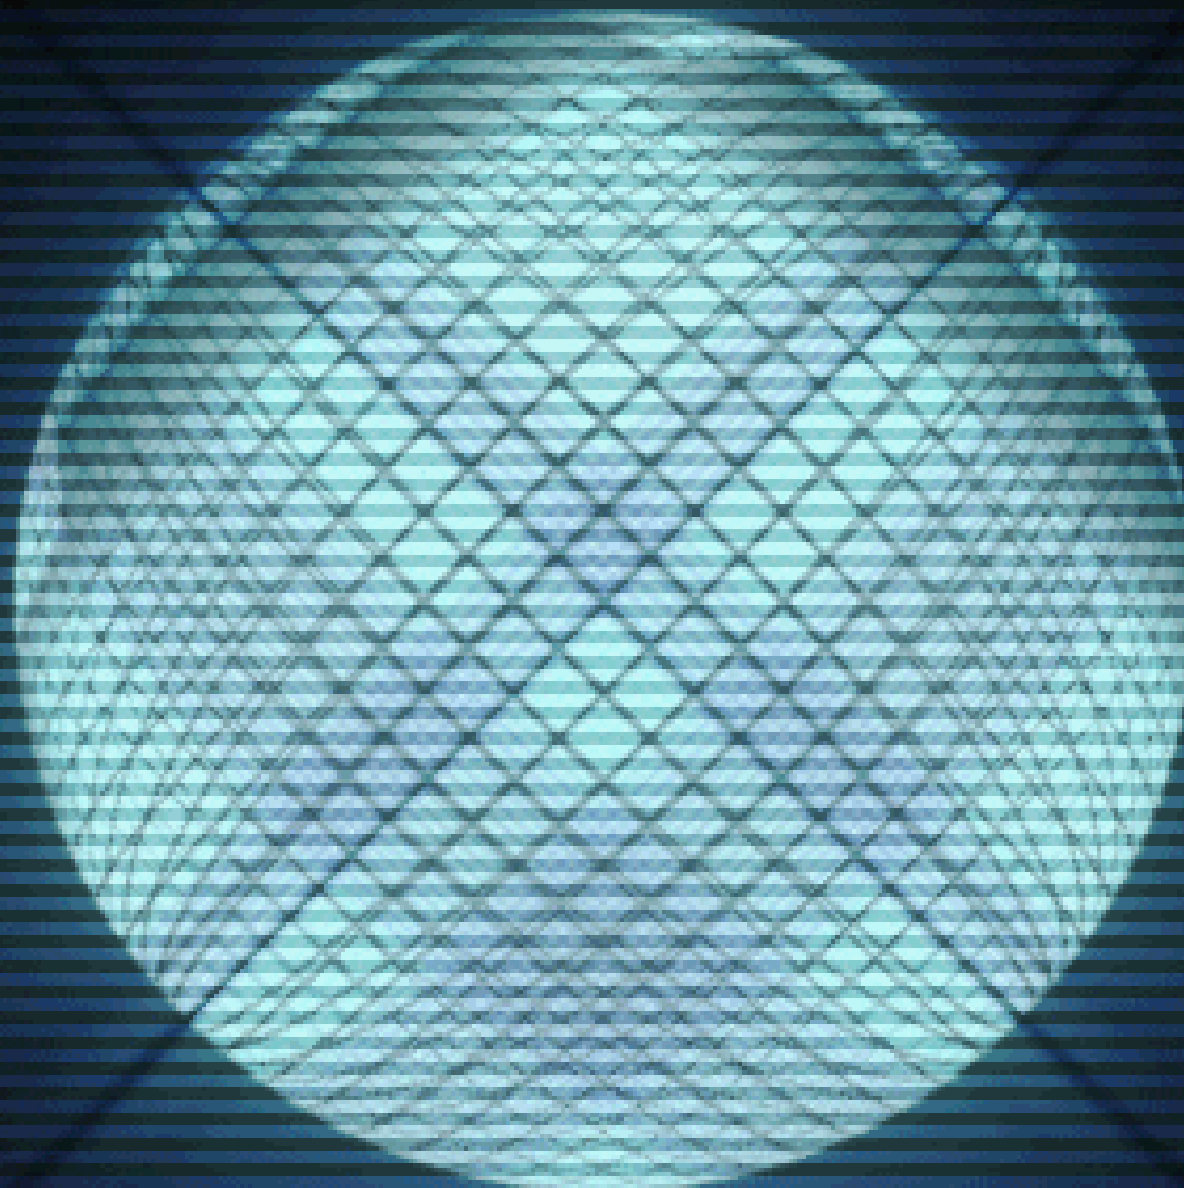

I'd love to add an additional flourish to the story if time and budget allows such as they help the customers of their stolen memories upload them to their social media accounts like Instagram to rack up thousands of likes with their altered images.

REFERENCES

Deadcast

SEST+BOX

リサイクル GTR

TEL03-3871-4444

www.brandrecycle-gtr.com

THANK YOU